MORE ABOUT THE CANDIDATE

A New York paper is not impressed with the idea that the democrats will take their presidential candidate to a man from a state having slight votes in the electoral college when it can so easily take one from a state having thirty-nine, which is New York. Yet a very respectable number of papers are waiting to select a presidential candidate to watch for Judge George Tracy, of Kentucky, which state has only three votes in the electoral college.

The Grand Rapids Press, which is a very able exposé of American opinion, says:

It will be well for the democrats to keep their eyes on the Delaware jurist, for a policy to prove a strong man in the next campaign. Possibly no more available man is at right this time for the presidential nomination of the party.

While we do not think the Delaware jurist, for very obvious reasons, will figure largely in the democratic convention of 1904. It will not be because his state is represented in the electoral college by only three votes.

There may have been occasions in the past when a perfectly available man has been nominated by either party to carry doubtful states having large representation in the electoral college, but there are other equally important reasons the other way.

The election of Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor and Franklin Pierce could in no case have been dictated by a desire to swing into the party a certain bulky electoral vote. They were nominated for reasons that appealed to the political judgments of the people, as representatives of national issues, and were elected on those issues.

It will be a good omen, indeed, for this republic when candidates are made for such reasons and not because their chief claim is their ability to swing a big state and so achieve a numerical and not moral political victory—Atlanta Constitution.

BECKHAM GOING TO WYOMING

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—Governor Beckham has announced that he will go to Yellowstone Park for a vacation in March next. The business of his present term must be wound up and then he must prepare for his inaugural in December and the meeting of the Legislature. The latter will hold him for sixty days. It will be springtime before he can take a rest from the cares of office. When the legislature adjourns in March he will take a trip to Yellowstone Park, accompanied by Mrs. Beckham and probably other members of the family. During his absence Col. W. P. Thorne, Lieutenant Governor elect, will handle the reins of Government in the state.

If candidate Roosevelt can read the signs of the times, as expressed in the results of the election in Kentucky and Maryland, he will be impressed with the danger to his candidacy from the giving of too many Sambo suppers at the White House. Roosevelt knew that mixed dinners at the home of the Nation's ruler was displeasing to the people of the South, but little cared he for that, so long as the voters of the Northern States, with their big majorities, applauded his mixed social affairs. But the time is coming when the people of Illinois and Ohio and of Indiana are not going to smile at the smooth artifices adopted to introduce social equality throughout the Union. It may have once been a political scare crow talk of social equality, but it is now a barren reality. With the President on one side of the light and Maryland's Gorman on the other, the gambler has been thrown down. Will Mr. Roosevelt read the rumblings of dissatisfaction, or will he meet defeat in the convention of his own party by his boasting of the negro into the white man's parlor through the avenue of the White House?—Lantern Herald.

Millard Lee was hanged at Atlanta, Ga., for the murder of Miss Lila May Suttles. The murder was committed on May 30, 1902. When he shot and killed Miss Dora May Suttles, a beautiful seventeen-year-old girl. The shooting occurred on Sunday morning and in a church of which Miss Suttles and Lee were attendants. The tragedy took place directly over the minister, who pronounced the benediction and was dismissing the congregation. Lee, who had been very much in love with Miss Suttles, had previously asked to go home with her and she had refused, stating she had an engagement with another, which seemed to anger Lee. At his first trial Lee was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death. Upon the day of execution a plea of insanity was filed by his attorneys, and a respite was granted by Governor Terrell. The case was carried to the Superior Court and on a technicality was thrown out. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court and the judgment of the lower court was reversed. This action occasioned a trial on the plea of insanity, and Lee was adjudged insane. Again the case was appealed to court of last resort, which affirmed the Superior court's decision. While the case was pending in the various courts Lee was granted six respites.

The Cincinnati correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: "A significant thing in this election was the vote cast in Scott, Franklin and Clay counties. Scott county, where Caleb Powers has been convicted three times, loudly its Democratic majority and even the city of Georgetown went Democratic. Franklin county, where Jim Howard has been convicted three times for firing the shot that killed Goebel, gave the largest Democratic majority, and Clay county, the home of Jim Howard, out its normal Republican majority in half. Harrison county, where Jett and White were tried, increased its Democratic majority, while Breathitt county, the home of Jett and White, gave a reduced Democratic majority. These facts indicate that the people are determined to put down assassination and murder in this State.

The sweeping victory achieved by George B. McClellan, the Tammany and democratic candidate for mayor of New York City, affords a splendid illustration of the fact that Tammany is hereafter, and when not corrupted by internal dissension and strife, she can win an election with an old-time, old-fashioned democratic majority. In all this there comes the suggestion that the newly elected mayor of Greater New York becomes a powerful, if not the logical, candidate for the vice-presidential nomination on the democratic ticket of next year and this is not without good reason. He is what the world would call a "self-made man," and by dint of his own labors he has succeeded where many have failed. He began life as a newspaper reporter on the New York dailies. He next read law and became a lawyer by profession. In 1895 he was elected president of the board of aldermen for the city and county of New York which held for two years. He was five times elected a member of Congress from the 12th district of New York City, serving in the 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th and 58th congresses. His full name is George Brinton McClellan and he was born in Dresden, Saxony, whither his parents had gone on a visit on the 23rd day of November, 1826, and he will, therefore be 38 years of age this month. His remarkable political successes are an achievement seldom made by one so young.

The late Ed Marshall, in olden times a favorite political speaker in the Blue Grass section, and occasionally a candidate for office, used to say that he could draw bigger crowds to hear him speak and get fewer votes than any other man in Kentucky. And so it was with the Ohio Democrats. They can make more noise during a political campaign and poll fewer votes on election day than any other people on the habitable globe.

A part of the good work done by the Kentucky Democrat was to eliminate the negro as a factor for evil. Under the direction of unscrupulous white Republicans he was fast becoming an element of danger.

Steel trust securities made another record on Wall Street.

FROM KANSAS.

DELLER PLAIN, Nov. 7, 1903.
Editor of the News:

According to promises, I will write you a few lines. We have had two weeks of very wet weather for this time of year, though it is the very thing we needed for wheat. My father and brother, Jack, have out 500 acres. It looks just fine. Our cattle and horses run on it; we don't feed anything.

My grandmother, of whom I wrote you, in a former letter, has left us and gone to Decatur, Texas, to visit her two daughters. She may go on to San Antonio to visit her son and spend the winter. O. C. Pa has just got your paper and as soon as he opened it he saw the big rooster and he exclaimed, "Governor Beckham is re-elected and ex-Governor Taylor can't go back to Kentucky and ride over the good people. He will have to hide out for four years longer. Belknap can't have his mixed schools yet while in old Kentucky."

Pa took his big gun and went out in the yard and shot off a big 44's; then he came back in the house and called me. In the meantime I had taken fright and had fled to the basement. When I came out I said "Pa what in the world does all this mean?" "Oh I just was helping to bury the Republicans." He said them big roosters look like old times to me. When it was all over Pa recovered a very nice rabbit and a five dollar Stetson at that.

I will close with best wishes, hoping that all the little mother's children may have an abundance of God's best blessings through life. Success to the News.

Aged 12 years.

COST OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The nation does all that can be done for its dead who meet their end in the distant islands of the Pacific. They are buried in the soil they loved and their friends are given the opportunity of paying the last tribute of respect to their memories. But why need they have died? Is the mortality of the Philippines not totally unnecessary? The war has been over for years, yet the deaths go on. Disease has succeeded sword and fire and insanity stalks hand in hand with death. Such is the cost. What is the gain? Nothing that can recompense the nation for the loss of the thousands of lives that have been sacrificed to the thirst for conquest. We paid twenty million dollars for islands that we do not want and that so far have failed to even pay interest on the investment and, in addition, have cost us millions more and will cost us many millions still. Taken altogether this Philippines situation is the most regrettable feature or American history.—Boston Traveler.

SHORT SENTENCE PHILOSOPHY.

Truth often has a sting in its tail.
A sharp tongue often speaks bluntness.
Some men first act and reason afterward.
The honesty of lots of men has never been tested.
Lots of Presidential timber will go by the board.

It doesn't pay to snub a man who loves you money.

Love that lives on beauty alone will soon starve to death.

A woman can't feel dressed up and feel comfortable, too.

Every State has its capital, except sometimes the state of matrimony.

Some people believe in having peace even if they have to fight for it.

We may get the better of an argument without proving that we are right.

Negroes who conduct themselves properly are much safer in the South than one of them commits a foul crime he alone is punished, and the innocent are not made to suffer on his account. In the North when there is trouble in which the negro is a guilty and innocent are alike killed and punished. No distinction is made.

WHITE MAN'S PARTY.

Senator Morgan has declared unequivocally in favor of a "white man's party." He wants a plank incorporated in the next Democratic National platform declaring that "the National Democratic party is and always has been a white man's party." In Maryland the campaign was conducted along this line. The leading issue was the question of the right of the negro to have a determining voice in the government of the state. The substantial Democratic victory in that state, was despite the personal and official influence of President Roosevelt, shows how pronounced the public sentiment was on that question.

Without the negro vote Republicans in Kentucky would never have the courage to enter a State contest. Were this vote eliminated entirely, outside of the Eleventh Congressional district the Republicans would not be able to elect a single District officer. The white Republicans have no use for the negro except at election times. They use him simply as a tool to further their selfish purposes—to help them to places of power and profit. At the election held last week it was demonstrated more forcibly than ever before that the negro, backed by unscrupulous white Republicans, is a dangerous factor in politics. This renewed aggressiveness on the part of the negro was largely due to the policy of the National administration on the race question.

It is estimated that four-fifths of the voters in Kentucky are Democrats; the same proportion of the same party are employees of labor and pay taxes accordingly, and it is not surprising that the dominant party should feel something of restlessness at some of the methods employed by scheming and unscrupulous politicians to use the negro as a miserable tool for their own personal and political advancement. But the magnificent Democratic majority in the State will help clear the atmosphere and relieve much of the anxiety that has been felt in this connection. The result of the election last week makes certain the fact that the Democratic party will continue in power for years to come, and that the negro, as a political power, will be shown of much of his importance on election day. This will be better for the negro, and better for the peace of the people. Negro political domination is not for Kentucky—Georgetown Times.

BANK MONEY ORDERS.

This country needs the enormous commercial conveniences of bank money orders, but the national bankers do not seem able to propose for themselves any device better than an adoption of the cumbersome system now used by the government and express companies.

What the business people of the country need is a system of bank transfers whereby Jones in Atlanta can go to a bank and deposit $100, or any other sum, to be paid to Smith in New York or Seattle on the same day by a bank in either of those cities. The bank in the receiving city notifies Smith that it has a sum to his credit and that, with his identification, enables him to get it at once. The cost of the transfer, including telegram and bank commissions, is held out of the remittance or arranged between Jones who pays it or Smith who is the beneficiary.

A system kindred to this has been in vogue in Germany for some years and has resulted in the tremendous facilitation of money exchanges within the empire, accommodated the public, hastened business and proving profitable to the related banks. Such an arrangement between national banks only in this country would soon give to them an immense volume of business annually, with profits better than ordinary exchange, and would do a public service that the people would not slow to appreciate. If the banks do not soon adopt some such immediate transfer system the express companies will at last come to it and reap the patronage and benefits that will follow its popular employment.

A Washington dispatch says "the only expression which President Roosevelt would make regarding the election was that he was very much gratified with the results from Ohio." Indeed Ohio there was not much to the returns to give gratification to the President or any other Republican.

GOOD ROADS BOUND TO COME.

The national good roads movement is bound to take definite and satisfactory shape, providing it is given the encouragement and support it ought to have. The proposition has grown in favor the past few years under the publicity given the movement through various channels. The effort to secure national aid crystallized a year ago in the introduction of the Brownlow bill in Congress. This will come up again the coming winter and few are important bills will be presented. During the past year some quiet work has been done, and it is now thought possible to secure enough support in the Senate and especially in the House of Representatives to make this a law.

A large number of members from different sections of the country, south and west, stand ready to support the Brownlow bill, and it is believed likely it will also receive much favor from the delegations from New York, New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The Eastern States named have had not a little experience in the construction and maintenance of good roads, and are more than ready to promote the movement. This goes hand in hand with the extension of rural free mail delivery, and it touches the agricultural sections more closely than any other. The grange, the farmers' clubs, and every kindred organization should continue to support the federal good roads propaganda.

STATE NEWS.

In Anderson county on election day Constable J. Edwards was stabbed and probably fatally wounded by Oliver Carr when he was trying to arrest him for making a disturbance at an election precinct.

In Montgomery county, Alonzo and Noble Wiloughby, aged respectively 40 and 23 years, fought over a division of a field of corn, when Noble drew a knife, and attacked his elder brother, inflicting perhaps fatal wounds.

The dead body of Dud Hart, aged thirty-five, was found lying near the line of the C. & O. track near Salt Lick, Bath county. The body of his head was crushed in and it is supposed that he had been asleep on the track when the train struck him. A wife and children survive.

Election day was characterized by a number of killings. There were various shooting scrapes, though some of them did not result fatally. At Harlan Courthouses Jim Wills and Mason Kash, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, were killed, and Noah Mullins and Will Smith were desperately wounded. Wills had brought Mullins, who was a doctor, in to vote him, and Kash, who was an election officer, objected. The fight followed in the election booth, which was only about eight feet square, the four men lying on the floor when the smoke had cleared away. In Jackson county Morgan Worles was killed by Bill Simpson, who was himself dangerously injured. In Bastyrville, Lee county, a negro named Morris, who was refused a vote, cleaned out the election booth by shooting and wounding three of the election officers. He was wounded, but made his escape.

THE ADAM COUNTY NEWS

Adair County News Co.
(INCORPORATED.)
CHAS. E. HARRIS, Editor
Residence newspaper devoted to the fair and just representation of the people of Adair and adjacent counties.
Entered as the Columbia Postoffice second class matter.

WED. NOV 18, 1903.

We are reminded of the old adage "Time Flies" since it seems so short a space from the introduction of the News to the completion of the sixth year and the beginning of the seventh. In this, the first issue of volume seven, we feel it a pleasure as well as a duty to return our thanks to the many who have patronized the News office in any of its departments. Beginning six years ago with a crippled plant, without experience and laboring under many difficulties common to the building of a business, we have had some experience lessons, but from the beginning our main purpose was not to swell a bank account, but to build the paper and to aid in the advancement of our town and county and adjoining counties. Whether the News has been of any worth to this county and this part of the State is left for others to determine, but our motives can only be measured in what we attempt to do, and so much in what we accomplish. We have not reasons to believe that the News has accomplished good for this community, but sincerely regret that it could do no more than it has done. While seeking to advance the public good we have endeavored to expand our own business and along this line our efforts have not been barren nor fruitless. For the last six months we have been mailing more than two thousand papers weekly; our advertising patronage has kept pace with our subscription and our job presses have been kept constantly running. The closing of the sixth year rounds up our most successful period and the seventh is here with brighter prospects than any that preceded it. For all this we are thankful to the many who appreciate our efforts and who make it possible for an increase of our business. The News will not change its policy nor relax its efforts in the lines marked out in the beginning, but if possible will more earnestly press such measures as will bring good to our people and our county. We realize that as a community we can not afford to stand still; it is too dangerous to be content with present environments. We must move—keep pace with the advancement of others or decay is inevitable. We rejoice in the fact that a good healthy public spirit prevails in our county. Our people are gradually divesting themselves of the disadvantages of 50 years ago; they are moving into new avenues and slowly but surely realizing the fact that every man owes a part of his time, talents and means to the public; that individual prosperity, advancement and enjoyment largely depends on a similar public condition. That Adair County feels the stimulus of an aroused sentiment and determination to secure better conditions is evidenced in many marked improvements within the last six years. Her public roads are being remodeled, her public buildings throughout the county neat and attractive, four substantial iron bridges span the streams, an increased interest in education and a wonderful development in educational facilities. The News finds much pleasure in the awakening of public sentiment that brings such good results; it delights in improvements, whether in bridges, roads or schools, whether in the center or the remotest part of our county, and rejoices in the advancement of any and every county in the state. We desire to mention the fact that we have had from the beginning of the News the solid time and talents of Mr. J. E. Murrell, a newspaper man from choice, ability and experience, known to as many people in this part of the State as any man and whose friends are as numerous as his acquaintances. Whatever success the News has made, its standing and influence, we cheerfully concede a just part to Mr. Murrell. In all the arguments we have competent employees. Since Anne Eubank, compositor, whose time has been devoted to the care of the paper for more than three years, still finds pleasure in her connection with this office. Mr. Bruce Montgomery, compositor, pressman and general mixer, is showing his ability to master any part of the newspaper work. Mr. Sam Nat Hancock, an all around newspaper man, stands at the head of our job department—one of the best equipped young men in the State for such a position, measured by experience. Mr. C. H. Murrell, solicitor, the hand-shaker on the road, the right man in the right place, knows his business, willing to do a customer as well as the News office. All told, we are moving along in peace and happiness. The News, like most of offices, has much room for improvement, and since we believe that a brighter future is in store for this section, the fertile plains and thriving towns of the West have been abandoned, in our mind, and we are here to dwell with friends, to share in the blessings and adversities of this section. We have determined to make the News office what it ought to be if within our power, and trust to serve our patronage much better in every department within a few months. We promise a faithful allegiance to Southern Kentucky in all her efforts toward advancement and earnestly trust that the people will meet to the News such patronage as it may merit.

If all the towns in Kentucky are filled with residents entertaining the same ideas as the citizens of Columbia, the Courier Journal must have a tremendous circulation in the State. It is understood that Democrats support the paper, but all intelligent Republicans take it and read it, knowing that it is the only morning daily that gives reliable information. In the business houses and in the banks you will find the Courier Journal.

Six men were killed, one was fatally crushed and three others were seriously injured in a collision of Louisville and Nashville freight trains at Telford's near Lebanon Junction. It was the worst railroad wreck in Kentucky in several years. The monetary loss is great, three huge locomotives and sixteen cars being demolished. An explosion of dynamite, following the wreck, set fire to the debris, and the victims were cremated.

A special from Washington to the Courier Journal says: Representative Smith introduced two bills, each appropriating $175,000 for the construction of a lock and dam in Green and Salt Rivers. He also re-introduced bills for the construction of public buildings at Elizabethtown, Bardonia and Lebanon, also a bill asking for an appropriation of $12,000 for the purchase of a national road between Lebanon and the National cemetery.

The next Kentucky Legislature will have a Democratic majority of seventy-six on joint ballot. In the last Assembly the Democratic majority was sixty. The next Senate will have a membership made up of thirty-one democrats and seven republicans, and the House will have seventy-six democrats and twenty-four republicans.

It will perhaps not be known for certain who will receive the certificate of election to Congress from this district—Hunter or Edwards—until the State Board announces the result. The race is very close, both contestants claiming their election.

The Hunter-Edwards fight has not yet been settled. Both gentlemen are claiming their election, and at this writing Jack Little, Congress will make the final settlement. Both sides are preparing for the contest.

The Louisville Post that fought Mr. Beckham from start to finish, now finds pleasure in announcing that he is eligible to succeed himself as Governor of Kentucky.

CHEAP LANDS
For Homeowners' and Colonies.

The country along the Cotton Belt Route in Southeast Missouri, Arkansas, Northwest Louisiana and Texas offers the greatest opportunities for Homeowners. Mild climate, good water, cheap building material, abundance of fuel, and soil that will often in a single season yield enough to pay for the ground. Land can be bought as cheap as $2.50 an acre, prairie land at $4 and $5 per acre up, bottom land at $5 and $6 per acre up, improved or partly cleared land at $10 and $15 per acre up. Some fine propositions for colonies—tracts of 2,000 to 5,000 acres at $4 to $10 per acre—big money in this for a good investor. Fruit and truck lands in the famous peach and tomato belt of East Texas, $10 to $20 per acre up. Write us for information about cheap rates, excursion dates, also literature descriptive of this great country and let us help you find a home that will cost you no more than the rent you pay every year.

Persons who desire to remember friends have already commenced making selections of presents for their friends. There are many very handsome gifts on display at our stores, and those who buy early get choice. It is a good idea to delay purchasing Christmas gifts until the stores have been picked over.

The annual meeting of the American Glue Growers of the Association of Kentucky will be held at Cave Valley, this county, Wednesday and Thursday, November 25 and 26, 1903. An interesting program has been made out. Mr. Owen Banks, who died last Sunday, was to have delivered the opening address.

The new Municipal Board has not yet been sworn in, but will in a few days. It is our understanding that the board will, as soon as qualified, see what changes can be made toward opening streets, that at this time seem absolutely necessary. Certainly one will have to be opened leading from Water Street to the college building.

It is our understanding that Mrs. Bettie Atkins, of this place, mother of Mr. E. G. Atkins, will be the Matron of the Methodist Training School. The selection is a most excellent one. Hibbins has been in charge of the work, and dirt breaking will begin in the Spring. The road will miss Campbellsville, and we are sorry the citizens of that town did not make an effort to get it.

Our citizens were very much shocked last Monday morning when a report became current that Mr. Basett Hays and Mr. Matthew Taylor, two of Adams county's best citizens, had died the night before. The report was untrue, and the two gentlemen are now at work and to the gratification of everybody it was learned that the gentlemen were not dead, but their conditions much better. Mr. Hays was taken quite ill Saturday and Mr. Taylor has been paralyzed.

Mr. Allen Walker removed his family from Gradyville to this place last Thursday. Mr. Walker is one of Adams county's best citizens and we are glad he has become a resident of Columbia. They occupy the residence recently vacated by Mr. S. D. Barbee, the latter gentleman having recently removed to his farm beyond the bridge.

DEATH OF O. R. BANKS.

The people of this community were surprised last Sunday at noon when Dr. W. B. Grissom announced that the subject of this notice was dead. He was taken sick Saturday afternoon and rapidly grew worse until 11 o'clock Sunday when he died.

Owen Banks was one of the best known young men in the Cave Valley section of the county and was universally popular. He possessed fine business attainments and was associated with his father, who conducted a general store at Cave Valley, from which time Owen was twelve years old until a short time ago. The deceased was a victim of consumption; and during the few hours he was sick he received the best medical attention and was wisely watched by his devoted wife, father and mother and other relatives and friends. He will be greatly missed in Cave Valley where he was popular with everybody.

The deceased was 28 years old and was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Banks. He confessed his Savior in 1901, and joined the Christian Church. A few years ago he was married to Miss Mattie Hatcher, who with three children survive him. The funeral was preached by Eld. Z. T. Williams Monday afternoon at three o'clock, many relatives and friends being present. The interment was in the Cave Valley cemetery. May God comfort the wife and children, father and mother and the two brothers who are absent, one living in Richmond, Ky., the other in the State of Texas.

EMANUEL SLOAN DEAD.

Perhaps no man in Russell county was better known than the subject of this writing. He was about sixty-eight years of age, and finished his high school last Friday night. He was a farmer and trader by profession, and during his career accumulated a considerable estate. Mr. J. F. Triplett, the undertaker, who went over with the casket from this place, was informed that his wealth was estimated at $40,000. He was never married and his estate will be divided by three, one sister and several nephews and nieces. The deceased was buried Monday afternoon near the Rock-House Bottom.

William Brake and a man named Brown became involved in a difficulty at Burksville last Monday. The trouble came up over a horse trade. There were about eight shots fired, and Brown was killed instantly.

Persons who contemplate taking out life insurance should see J. B. Murrell, and secure a policy that pays an annual dividend. He represents the Connecticut Mutual. Reference Bank of Columbia.

Notwithstanding that three persons are now doing time in the Louisville jail for selling liquor in this place, the law continues to come in nightly. Of course a great deal of the whisky that comes to us is ordered by persons for their individual use, but it is confidently believed that there are peddlers yet in the suburbs of the city. If those in authority will ever close watch other game will be tagged. This is a town of schools and every good citizen should use his best diligence to put down the sale of whisky.

From now until the first of the year the chicken, turkey, geese, duck and egg trade of Adams county will be in Adams county, having headquarters at Columbia, ships in large quantities weekly, and expects his trade to be larger this season than for several years in the past. The above character of produce brings more money to Adams county than all the horses, mules, cattle and hogs.

Servants were held last Sunday at the Methodist and Baptist churches, Rev. P. E. Lewis filling the pulpit at the former and Rev. J. P. Scruggs at the latter. Large congregations were out and interesting sermons were delivered. Both of these gentlemen are men of ideas and their thoughts are presented in a forcible manner. At three o'clock in the afternoon Rev. Lewis spoke to a large audience at Taylor. At the same hour Gov. J. R. Hibbins entertained the young people at the ball at this city, giving them correct advice.

Mr. Daniel P. White, one of the most prominent tobacco men on the Louisville breaks, died at this city Monday night of last week of cancer of the stomach. He was a native of Green county, a son of Dr. P. P. White, and was for years a member of the firm of Glover, White & Co., one of the largest tobacco houses in Louisville. Later he was associated with the Green River House, and was well-known by most of the tobacco growers of this section.

He was personally known to a great many Columbians, who will regret to hear of his death. He leaves a wife and one child.

The new board is requested to take into consideration the great benefits that would be afforded were lamps put in front of each one of our churches. A stranger, from another State, attended services at the Baptist church last Sunday night, and seeing no light when he came out he was perfectly astonished. Upon returning to the hotel he talked at length about our town being in the dark. He remarked furthermore, that it was his first visit to Columbia, but he was told in Lebanon and Harrodsburg that it was one of the best towns in the State. He was very favorably impressed, but said we certainly needed street lights.

HUNTERS BE CAREFUL.

The hunting season has opened and all those who expect to participate in the sport should be sure to obtain the consent of the owner of the land before they go on to it. Section 1259 of the Kentucky statute makes it unlawful to hunt upon the land of another person without first obtaining the owner's consent, and the fine is from five to twenty-five dollars.

"Any person who enters upon the enclosed lands of others for the purpose of hunting, shooting or fishing, without the consent of the owner or occupant of said land, shall be fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars."

Above we present the picture of the fourth structure of this kind built in this county in the last five years and we trust that Russell's creek, on the Greenburg road. We know that some of the tax-payers of the county would stand at least three-fourths of the cost of the work and stand ready to endorse the action of the county. Bridge building has been quite an issue in the Fiscal Court, but fortunately a majority is for bridging. Those who appear to favor such improvements and are responsible for the above are: Squires Wolford, England, Eubank and Sullivan, together with County Attorney James Garnett, Jr. They assume the responsibility and are justly entitled to the credit for such aggressive and progressive methods to bring such needed improvements. The News unequivocally endorses their course and prides in their courage, judgment and progress. We trust that no let up will occur until the need for bridges has entirely disappeared. on the charge of arson and burglary.
BRAIN LAKES
The true Christian always looks it.
He is richest who gets the most enjoyment out of what he has.
The other man's work always appears easiest to perform.
It is always safe to trust the man who warms the beds on a winter morning.
Of course there is room at the top,
but is there plenty of opportunity at the bottom?
Some people observe Thanksgiving and the box their acknowledgments to themselves.
A whole lot of men excuse dirty political tricks by saying that it is "good politics."
Charity begins at home but it never ends at home until it takes some outdoor exercise.
We never see a woman lavishing affection on a pug dog without feeling

The man who quibbles about his wife usually wonders why she quits being his sweetheart.
The man who buys books solely for their bindings usually picks his friends
because of their clothes.
The average boy is always most deeply interested in his studies just at the time when he should be getting into the headlines.
How often we wish we could raise children as well as those men and women who have no children think they could.
There is but one reason why we should do a thing that should be done but we can generally find a dozen reasons for not doing it.
Captain Kidd's reputation would not have been improved a bit if he had taken to a captaincy of industry instead of taking to buccaneering.
The latest fashion in men's trousers is to have them extremely wide and loose about the hips. The narrower the head the wider the trousers.
The husband who never gives his wife a cent unless she asks for it is usually the fellow who wonders most how a woman can get along with one pocket
at.

STILL AT IT.

The crop of fools is perennial Droughts may cut down the yield of corn, chick bugs and in may destroy the wheat, floods may sweep over the land and take all vegetation before them, leading the earth a desert in their track, famine may lay waste whole provinces, but the crop of gullible suckers falls never.
The gold brick man has been exposed a thousand times but the gold brick outlets goes on just the same.
The ways of the business man are old and have been published almost ever since newspapers began to be printed and scattered among the reading public, but the business man is still doing business. The green goods swindler has been exposed times without number but every year thousands yield to the seductive offers of people traveling under aliases who propose to supply them with wealth for just a trifling expenditure of cash. Get rich schemes have caught the money of hundreds of thousands and the promoters' methods have been exposed and some of the promoters sent to jail, but other schemes just as unreasonable are started and find plenty of human beings to bite at in different ways and shapes. Here is one of the latest advertisements sent out from New York:
"Have you five dollars? Do you wish to make them ten within a year and one thousand within a short time?"
This seductive proposition is a minute scheme which proposes to take the owner's five and kindly invest it for him and in a short time give back a thousand.
And there is every reason to believe that this graft has gathered in its thousands of eager suckers, who, if they were offered a chance to invest their money in some legitimate business enterprise which promises a fair return would not do it. They would rather put their hard earned cash into the hands of some man they never saw and never will see, who promises to do something which all experience has shown to be an impossibility, and in the face of the record which shows that the people who promises to do these things are invariably swindlers, eruptions and piles, 25c at all

EVERY TOWN ITS OWN BANKER.
One of the most indicative features of recent treasury reports is the fact that in October, fifteen hundred national banks were organized, with $2,500,000 aggregate capital or an average of $166,666 each. Perhaps the majority of the new banks were of the $50,000 class and represent the enterprise of the citizens of county men and rural people in establishing banking facilities of their own.
These are good signs of the accumulation in the hands of the people of money for investment and of a general desire to put it into financial institutions that are safe and helpful to the business enterprises of the vicinity. A very small bank issuing 50 per cent of its capital in full currency and leading both in and a large proportion of its normal deposits to those who are in immediate persons, is of incalculable benefit to the whole community.

It runs on the same principle as the
and the agent of foreign mortgage companies and so keeps active the money of the people in the work of those to whom the home bank cannot on reasonable terms and under safe securities.
It is also noteworthy that $2,500,000 of the capital above mentioned was contributed by the fifty of the fifty-seven new banks located in the south and the west. This increase of banking capital in these sections means that much less of money committed to the care and use of banks located at a distance. The money remains at home and makes it more possible for the producing sections to handle the making and moving of their crops.
These are encouraging signs of the passing times.—Atlanta Constitution.
